Recruiting an editor for Otoyo!

The screenshot shows a messaging interface with four messages from a user named 'e'. The messages are:

- 12:52 AM May 28: Delete: "e"
- 4:38 AM Today: Replace: "ere" with "as"
- 4:55 AM Today: personal preference: "I wonder if Yanagi-kun would humor me if I said" Mostly because reads easier, but partly because it avoids the phrase "straight man"
- 5:14 AM Today: if a "like" can go here, it would be good. Otherwise, we should probably change this sentence to "You talking 'bout Yoshikawa?"

Hello! We are recruiting an editor for this series. Editors work with translators to smooth out the script before it's lettered. They look for grammatical errors, typos, areas that feel unnatural, and more. Examples include:

- Awkward and cumbersome lines
- Out-of-character lines
- Sincere lines that come off as sarcastic
- Errors in the flow of logic
- Unintentional double entendres
- Lines that do not fit the time period

Though not a requirement, we generally prefer people who are native speakers of English, especially American English, as this is the English the translator uses. Additionally, if you have experience editing outside of manga or read a lot of fiction, this is a major plus, but it's not required!
